Plan

Hi Raul,

It was good to see you. Your MSQ is stable at 9 (from 8). Your affect seems bright and you have energy. You have lost 20 pounds and seem to have a great handle on many of the lifestyle changes we have recommended.

This is your optimal health plan and D.R.E.S.S.® Protocol. DRESS stands for diet, rest, exercise, stress, and supplements. Any hyperlinks will need to be copied and pasted.

ACTION ITEMS:

- Make another appointment with Nancy, your health coach.
- On the next pre-appt form add in ALL of the medications and supplements you are taking.
- Since you are on Lithium, serum creatinine levels need to be monitored closely as lithium can affect kidney function over time - watch the trend of the Creatinine despite it being within normal range
 - Repeating labs from the same company will help to track levels over time where we are comparing “apples to apples”
 - The CMP (Comprehensive Metabolic Panel) will show BUN and creatinine
 - We will repeat this CMP to be sure we have consistency in tracking
- DO bloodwork in the early morning and urinalysis via Lab Corp.
 - B12, folate, vitamin D, zinc:copper, carnitine - free and total, coQ10, CMP, UA C&S
 - Draw in 1 month. You do NOT need to fast.
 - Hold the vitamins for 1 day before the blood draw
 - Location: 758 Eddy St Ste 101, Providence, RI 02903
 - Schedule APPT at <https://www.labcorp.com/patients/labs-and-appointments/results?locID=24819>
- I am uploading a supplement chart to map out supplements - use this if you find it helpful
 - You might consider filling a pill case or just using the chart so you know when to take supplements
 - If you need more assistance, please ask Nancy to assist with this
 - There are a lot right now, but they will decrease over time.
- Read through to the end of your new plan and ask questions as needed

MEDICATIONS:

- The ketogenic diet is meant to be a treatment to replace medication if you choose. With time, you will be able to discontinue the Prosom and lamotrigine. I know the plan is to increase the lithium and hopefully slowly reduce the Invega Sustenna progressively to the lowest effective dose. If the IM shot is causing that much discomfort, you may want to discuss with Dr. Luz about converting to oral administration. You are quite disciplined and likely not to miss any doses. There are long term side effects of this class of medications that you will want to avoid. Work closely with your psychiatrist on this and monitor for sleep change as a first sign for mania or psychosis. Don't ignore slight shifts.

LAB RESULTS - Overview/Highlights

- Vitamin D is suboptimal (goal 60-80)
- Some bacterial chronic infection still noted on diff, though you say you had been sick
- Thyroid function OK
- Lipid panel within normal limits (elevated cholesterol is not a concern at this time)
- Lithium level is 0.61
- Blood sugar slightly elevated but A1C optimal at 4.7
- Cloudiness in urine warrants repeating

DIET:

- You are very well-versed on keto and achieving ketosis much of the time, especially when in Puerto Rico.
- Eating on campus is difficult but you have done a great job
- Because you are looking for variety and college-friendly snack foods, especially on the weekends, SEE RESOURCES BELOW FOR A LIST OF FOODS TO CONSIDER/TRY and see how you respond.
- There is no “right way” to offer recommendations for when to eat snack-like foods, but because you are disciplined, it likely will not be an issue to have some foods that are not “clean” on occasion without falling into a pattern of eating unhealthy foods
- You will need to do mini experiments and see how they affect your ketones

Hydration

- Aim for half your weight in ounces, but have your hydration be consistent daily so that your body can acclimate and Lithium levels are not affected since they are processed via the kidneys.
- We DO NOT recommend electrolytes while you are on Lithium

REST:

- I am glad you are sleeping well. You have been aiming for 8 hours sleep
- I know the goal is to eventually remove this medication - Prosom

EXERCISE:

- Continue walking
- Continue strength training 3X weekly.
 - I know that getting the arm shot affects your consistency
- Your energy is high on Keto and you need an outlet, so exercise is great for this

STRESS REDUCTION:

- Continue to work with Nancy on a stress reduction practice that resonates with you
